Summary of the Course

This course explores recent translation theories and methodologies, as well as the role of translators in modern multi-cultural societies. You will learn how to translate between Chinese and English, using different translation theories and techniques, and how to develop individualised strategies for your translation that tap into your own capacity and strength and further expand it. You will develop and hone your skills in tackling different styles of translation through various hands-on translation exercises.

Course Learning Outcomes

1. identify recent developments in translation theories and practices and explain at least one basic translation model/style
2. assess new techniques and technologies available for English and Chinese translation
3. tackle translation in a problem-based, objective-oriented manner, employing concepts, terminology and logical thinking to justify translation outcomes
4. translate selected representative texts from Chinese into English and English into Chinese

Teaching Strategies

This course will familiarise you with recent translation theories and methodologies, honing your skills in tackling different styles of translation. The lectures introduce current translation theories, methodologies and techniques which are explored in specialised weekly readings. Relevant quizzes are employed to encourage thorough comprehension of and critical reflection on the readings. The lecture also involves an in-depth discussion of the readings and translation topics. The tutorials provide a hands-on opportunity to put translation theories and methodologies into practice. You will develop and polish your skills in translating different styled texts through various translation exercises. Teamwork and peer learning is emphasised in the tutorial. Translation skills will be further assessed by an end-of-term test. The research project requires you to either undertake independent research and write a solo critical review on a specific topic, or prepare a pair/group presentation on a given topic.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another's ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another's ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person's individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person's academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person's work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (<http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/>). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time

- understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
- be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of UNSW ICT Resources Policy
- be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
- locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library

Some of these areas will be familiar to you, others will be new. Gaining a solid understanding of all the related aspects of ELISE will help you make the most of your studies at UNSW.
