Summary of the Course

You will be introduced to the history of the Nazi destruction of the European Jews during the Second World War. You will analyse the origins and implementation of Nazi anti-Jewish policies, the ways in which the civilian population responded to state-sponsored violence, and developments during the so-called Aftermath of the Holocaust. You will predominantly focus on an intensive study of the Holocaust, and will debate diverse perspectives on perpetrators, victims and bystanders. In the course you will also deal with other cases of mass violence committed by Nazi Germany (Slavs, religious minorities, physically and mentally disabled, and homosexuals) and will have the opportunity in your assessments to examine the Holocaust in relation to other acts of genocide committed during the twentieth century (Armenian genocide, Cambodia, Yugoslavia and Rwanda).

Course Learning Outcomes

1. Explain relevant aspects of Holocaust history.
2. Analyse important turning points, people, ideas and developments in the Holocaust.
3. Analyse the origins of the Holocaust and its implementation, as well as responses among the victims and bystanders to the Holocaust.
4. Evaluate scholarly arguments about and disciplinary approaches to the study of the Holocaust.
5. Construct evidence-based arguments using independently located sources.

Teaching Strategies

The course is designed to encourage your engagement with key debates in the history of the Holocaust, including the aftermath, and to develop your skills at critiquing scholarly literature and developing your own arguments. The purpose of lectures is to give you an overview of the historical events and introduce you to the major issues of Holocaust historiography. In tutorials you will engage critically with primary sources and contextualise them with the secondary readings available before the class. You will be required to undertake independent research and to write an analytical essay. The knowledge you gather during the lectures and tutorials and the understanding of the discussed sources will be tested in the final in-class exam. In this way, you will be able to develop the above skills in the context of the specific learning offered by this course.

Assessment

Detail information about all assessments will be available on Moodle.

Resources

Prescribed Resources

ARTS2285 Study kit – available on Moodle (via Leganto). For a comprehensive bibliography see Moodle:

Recommended readings:

None of these books are compulsory, but I strongly encourage you to check these volumes as a background reading for the course. All these volumes are accessible in the University library (or online via the University library catalog). The items can also be purchased in the University bookstore.

Yehuda Bauer, A History of the Holocaust (New York: F. Watts, 1982) – or a new edition from 2001.

Doris Bergen, War and Genocide: A Concise History of the Holocaust (Lanham: Rowman & Littlefield Publishers, 2009; or the new edition from 2016).

Jonathan C. Friedman (ed.), Routledge History of the Holocaust (London: Routledge, 2012).

Saul Friedlaender, Nazi Germany and the Jews, 1933-1945: Abridged Edition (New York: HarperCollins, 2009).

Michael R. Marrus, The Holocaust in History (London: Penguin 1989).

Peter Hayes, Why?: Explaining the Holocaust (New York: W. W. Norton & Company, 2017) - This is an excellent book, I strongly encourage you to read at least one of the essays.

Websites: www.holocaustchronicle.com

www.ushmm.org

www.yivoencyclopaedia.com

<http://www.calvin.edu/academic/cas/gpa/ww2era.htm> (a very good source for Nazi propaganda)

In preparation for tutorials and for your written assignments, I strongly encourage you to consult holdings in the University library or in the Sydney Jewish museum. You can also consult online resources, but be extremely cautious to use only reliable websites. Please DO NOT use www.wikipedia.org unless absolutely necessary (you are NOT allowed to use www.wikipedia.org as a source in your essays). Although Wikipedia could often provide you with valuable information, the nature of a free encyclopedia does not necessarily guarantee that only correct information is included. Rather try to check the above mentioned websites in the first place.

Course Evaluation and Development

Courses are periodically reviewed and students' feedback is used to improve them. Feedback is gathered from students using myExperience. It is encouraged students complete their surveys by accessing the personalised web link via the Moodle course site. I am also more than happy to hear your feedback informally in my consultation hours or via email.

Submission of Assessment Tasks

Turnitin Submission

If you encounter a problem when attempting to submit your assignment through Turnitin, please telephone External Support on 9385 3331 or email them on externalteltsupport@unsw.edu.au . Support hours are 8:00am – 10:00pm on weekdays and 9:00am – 5:00pm on weekends (365 days a year). If you are unable to submit your assignment due to a fault with Turnitin you may apply for an extension, but you must retain your ticket number from External Support (along with any other relevant documents) to include as evidence to support your extension application. If you email External Support you will automatically receive a ticket number, but if you telephone you will need to specifically ask for one. Turnitin also provides updates on their system status on Twitter.

Generally, assessment tasks must be submitted electronically via either Turnitin or a Moodle assignment. In instances where this is not possible, it will be stated on your course's Moodle site with alternative submission details.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another's ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another's ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person's individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person's academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person's work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (<http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/>). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time

- understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
- be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of UNSW ICT Resources Policy
- be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
- locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library

Some of these areas will be familiar to you, others will be new. Gaining a solid understanding of all the related aspects of ELISE will help you make the most of your studies at UNSW.
