

Code of Conduct

PART A: OVERVIEW OF THE CODE

This Code sets out the University's expectations of staff and affiliates with respect to their professional and personal conduct. It is intended to promote integrity and ethical behaviour, and to guide individuals' dealings with colleagues, students, the University, and the national and international community. The Code stands beside but does not exclude or replace other legally binding obligations.

The Code has broad application. It applies to all staff and affiliates of the University, regardless of their level or seniority. It covers all circumstances when staff and affiliates are performing work, duties or functions for the University, as well as related activities, such as work-related functions, travel, conferences and any circumstances when a person is representing the University.

The UNSW 2025 Strategy sets out the overarching strategic priorities and themes that guide staff and affiliates to achieve EXCELLENCE in all that we do:

A. Academic Excellence

1. Research Quality
2. Educational Excellence
3. Student Experience

B. Innovation and Engagement

1. Entrepreneurship
2. Partnerships
3. Knowledge Exchange

C. Social Impact

1. Equity, Diversity and Inclusion
2. Thought Leadership
3. Sustainable Development

Critical to the delivery of the 2025 Strategy are 5 UNSW Behaviours, expected of all staff and affiliates: Demonstrates Excellence; Drives Innovation; Builds Collaboration; Embraces Diversity, and Displays Respect.

Primary Obligations

The overarching obligation of all staff and affiliates is to act in the best interests of the University at all times. To this end, staff and affiliates have three primary obligations with respect to their personal and professional conduct:

1. an obligation to the University in terms of responsible stewardship of its resources and protection of its reputation in the wider community
2. a duty to observe standards of equity and respect in dealing with every member of the University community
3. an obligation to act appropriately when a conflict of interest arises between a staff member or affiliate's own self-interest and their duty to the University.

These obligations are expanded upon in Part B, with reference to relevant University policies and procedures.

PART B: OBLIGATIONS

1. University Resources and Reputation

Academic Freedom and Free Speech

The University recognises and protects the concept and practice of academic freedom as essential to the proper conduct of teaching, research and scholarship within the University. While academic freedom is a right, it carries with it the duty of academics to use the freedom in a manner consistent with a responsible and honest search for and dissemination of knowledge and truth. Academic freedom is not a defence to poor behaviour or disrespectful treatment of others.

Public Comment

Staff and affiliates must not make any public comment on behalf of the University or represent themselves as being spokespersons for the University, unless expressly authorised to do so. All public comments of this nature should be coordinated by the appropriate officer/s within the University's Division of External Engagement.

Within the ambit of academic freedom lies the traditional role of academics in making informed comment on societal mores and practice and in challenging held beliefs, policies and structures. Where such comments are offered by academics as members of the University, it is expected that those commentaries will be within their broad area of expertise.

These expectations are not intended to restrict the right of any individual to freely express their opinions in their private capacity, or as a member or representative of any professional, community or representative body. The University has an Academic Freedom and Freedom of Speech Code of Conduct which outlines these principles in detail.

Responsible Stewardship of University Resources

Staff and affiliates are required to:

- use University resources for University purposes only. Reasonable personal use of some resources may be permitted provided it is not excessive and it does not interfere with the performance of University duties or functions. ## PART C: OPERATION AND APPLICATION OF THE CODE

Responsibilities and Allegiances

The University is a complex organisation comprising a diversity of populations which have different relationships to one another. These may be relations of power and/or status. It is essential in such a community that all members recognise and respect not only their own rights and responsibilities but also the rights and responsibilities of other members of the community, and those of the University itself.

The University recognises that many of its staff and affiliates are also bound by codes of conduct or ethics defined by learned or professional societies or groups. Academic staff in particular have multiple allegiances: to their discipline or profession at national and international levels, to the academic profession; to the community at large; and to the University. It is recognised that these allegiances are not always be in harmony. It is the individual's obligation to weigh the importance of these allegiances in each particular set of circumstances and to notify an appropriate officer of the University where a conflict does or may arise.

Compliance with this Code

All staff and affiliates are required to comply with this Code. For the purposes of this Code:

- Staff means all employees of the University, including casual employees; and:
- Affiliates means conjoint and visiting appointees; consultants and contractors; agency staff; emeriti; members of University committees; and any other person appointed or engaged by the University to perform duties or functions for the University.

If a staff member breaches this Code, the University may take disciplinary action. In serious cases, this may include termination of employment. The process for dealing with alleged breaches of this Code by staff will be in accordance with the applicable enterprise agreement, industrial instrument or contract.

Affiliates may have commensurate action taken against them, which may include termination or non-renewal of their contract or appointment.

In addition to this Code, the following codes of conduct may also apply to some members of the University community:

- Academic Freedom and Freedom of Speech Code of Conduct
- Code of Conduct for Council Members
- Research Code of Conduct

This Code does not apply to students, except where they are also employees or affiliates (e.g. if a student is employed as a tutor, if a conjoint is also a student, etc.). The obligations of students are set out in the Student Code of Conduct and National Code of Conduct for Overseas Students.

Seeking guidance from University contact people

This Code sets out the obligations of staff and affiliates. It is not possible, however, to cover every circumstance and situation in this Code. If a circumstance or situation arises which is not expressly covered in this Code, individuals must apply the principles of this Code and not act in conflict with the Code. If an individual is unsure about their obligations in any circumstance or situation, they should seek guidance prior to taking any action, from the following contact persons:

- Staff should contact their manager/supervisor.
- Affiliates should contact the University contact person designated under their contract or appointment letter. Members of University committees should contact the chair of the Committee. Emeriti should contact the relevant Head of School or the Deputy Vice-Chancellor Academic & Student Life.

In addition, all staff and affiliates can contact the head of their school or faculty, business unit or division, the Chief Human Resources Officer or the Director, Risk & Safety Management.

Staff and affiliates can also report any suspected breaches of this Code, or other ethical issues, to these contact people.
