Introduction

UNSW is committed to improving and transforming lives through excellence in research, outstanding education and advancing a just society. Underpinning this commitment and the pursuit of knowledge at the University are the principles of academic and research integrity, and ethical behaviour.

Plagiarism involves a person using words or ideas of others and passing them off as their own¹ or republishing their own previously submitted work and presenting it as new findings or work without referencing the earlier work. It undermines academic and research integrity and is not tolerated at the University.

1. Types of plagiarism

In this policy, plagiarism includes:

Type	Description
Copying	Using the same or very similar text or idea to the original text or idea without appropriately acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This includes copying materials, ideas or concepts from a book, article, report or other written document, presentation, composition, artwork, design, drawing, circuitry, computer program or software, website, internet, other electronic resource, or another person's assignment, without appropriate acknowledgement. This can also include combining cited and non-cited (copied) passages.
Inappropriate paraphrasing	Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/ or progression of ideas of the original information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another's ideas or words without credit and the piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.
Collusion	Presenting work as independent work when it has been prepared in whole or part in through unauthorised collaboration with other people. This includes students providing their submitted work to another student for the purpose of them plagiarising, stealing, or acquiring another person's academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person's work, or seeking or receiving payment for completing academic work. This should not be confused with academic collaboration.
Contract cheating	Contract cheating is also known as engaging in 'ghost-writing'. It is a form of collusion. When a student or researcher engages another person to complete work for them and then submits the work as their own. This includes circumstances where a student or researcher submits work they may have edited which was substantially the work of another person, or where a student or researcher prepares a draft that is substantially modified by another (beyond minor editing).
Inappropriate citation	Citing sources which have not been read, not acknowledging the 'secondary' source from which knowledge of them has been obtained. This may include fabricating citations, or inaccurately citing sources which goes beyond typographical errors.

Self-plagiarism

An author republishing their own previously submitted work and presenting it as new findings or work without referencing the earlier work, either in its entirety or partially.

Self-plagiarism is also referred to as 'recycling', 'duplication', or 'multiple submissions of research findings' without disclosure. In the student or researcher context, self-plagiarism includes re-using parts, or all of a body of work that has already been submitted for assessment without proper citation². Where a student is repeating a course, they should seek permission from the course coordinator before re-submitting, in whole or part, the same piece of assessment.

Misuse of Generative AI tools

Generative artificial intelligence (AI) tools refers to digital tools that create new content such as text, images, voice, video, and code by learning from data patterns.

When students or researchers utilise these tools to complete coursework or research without authorisation and/ or without appropriate referencing, this may be considered plagiarism.

Examples of tools which incorporate generative AI include but are not limited to:

- Text Generators
- Translation Tools
- Proofreading/ Polishing Tools
- Image, Video, and Art Generation Tools
- Text Spinners

2. Guiding principles

2.1. The University's approach to poor scholarship and plagiarism is guided by the principles of

- Fairness
- Consistency
- Timeliness
- Education

2.2. This approach is supported by the University's services to students aimed at understanding the importance of academic integrity and in developing academic skills to avoid poor scholarship or plagiarism. It also extends to modes of teaching, assessment design and efforts to deter, detect and manage poor scholarship and plagiarism at the University.

Student Plagiarism Management Procedure

The Student Plagiarism Management Procedure applies to:

- all enrolled students, including those undertaking online programs and courses
- former students, students not currently enrolled and students previously enrolled, where the incident governed by this procedure occurred whilst they were enrolled in respect of poor scholarship and plagiarism suspected or detected during:

- a UNSW coursework program
- any coursework or assessment undertaken at another University, higher learning institution or organisation, towards the fulfilment of a UNSW program or degree
- a higher degree research program, where the assessable work in question is not classified as 'Research'

Managing poor scholarship and plagiarism

Allegations of plagiarism arising from Research will be handled according to the University's Complaints Management and Investigations Policy & Procedure.

Otherwise, the process for managing poor scholarship and plagiarism is as follows. An overview of the workflow is set out in APPENDIX B.

1. Poor scholarship or plagiarism detected

- 1.1. Section 1 of this Plagiarism Policy describes the various forms of plagiarism.
- 1.2. Where assessable work can be submitted electronically, Schools should use technology tools, such as Turnitin, that detect similarities between the student's submitted assessment and other sources or generative AI which may indicate poor scholarship or suspected plagiarism.
- 1.3. The assessor(s) or marker(s) exercise their academic expertise and judgement to detect poor scholarship or suspected plagiarism, enlisting the assistance of the Course Authority where appropriate.
- 1.4. Where misuse of generative AI is suspected, the assessor(s) or marker(s), with the assistance of the Course Authority where required, should request the student meet with them to explore whether there is in fact misuse of generative AI tools, allow an opportunity for the student to clarify their process and explain the context of their submission (Template 1, APPENDIX D).
- 1.5. Once poor scholarship or plagiarism is suspected, the matter is referred to the Course Authority and/ or School Student Integrity Adviser (SSIA) for assessment.

2. Assess poor scholarship or level of plagiarism

- 2.1. The Course Authority and/or School Student Integrity Adviser (SSIA) will assess poor scholarship or level of plagiarism in the submitted work using:
 - a) academic expertise and judgement;
 - b) appropriate and approved technology tools (i.e. the percentage similarity between a student's submitted assessment and other sources), such as Turnitin, as a guide

- c) the UNSW plagiarism marking rubric³ found in APPENDIX C which delineates poor scholarship and four levels of plagiarism; and
 - d) following the principles of procedural fairness.
- 2.2. According to the UNSW plagiarism marking rubric:
- a) 'Poor scholarship', 'Minor', 'Moderate' and 'Significant' will be managed by the School according to sections 3.3 to 4.2 below; or
 - b) 'Serious' will be referred by the Course Authority (following consultation with the SSIA) or the SSIA to UNSW Conduct & Integrity Office (CIO), to manage as a potential Student Misconduct according to the Complaints Management and Investigations Policy & Procedure.

3. Advise student of poor scholarship or plagiarism and invite response

- 3.1. The Course Authority or SSIA should advise the student of poor scholarship/ minor/ moderate/ significant level detected and proposed academic action (Template 2, APPENDIX D).
- 3.2. The student will have five (5) business days to provide a response.
- 3.3. Where no response is received from the student within the stipulated time, the Course Authority may proceed with continuing to mark the submitted work where possible.

4. Award a mark and notify student of outcome

- 4.1. The Course Authority, following consultation with the SSIA, will mark the submitted work based on the information available (including any response received from the student).
- 4.2. The SSIA's advice should be based upon available information and the plagiarism marking rubric in APPENDIX C.
- 4.3. The Course Authority will:
 - a) notify the student by email of the outcome and any action to be taken (Template 3, APPENDIX D);
 - b) refer the student to complete the online Working with Academic Integrity Module or book a consultation with Academic Skills, where the student will be offered further academic assistance (Template 4, APPENDIX D); and
 - c) record the mark.

5. Record instance of poor scholarship and plagiarism

The Course Authority (or their delegate) will record the finding of poor scholarship/ minor/ moderate/ significant plagiarism on the UNSW Plagiarism Register within a week of notifying the student of the outcome. This can be done here.

For support in making an entry to the UNSW Plagiarism Register, please contact UNSW Conduct & Integrity Office at studentconduct@unsw.edu.au.

Internal review

6. Lodging a request for an internal review for poor scholarship/ minor/ moderate/ significant plagiarism

- 6.1. A student may only lodge an internal review on the ground that the process followed by the School in determining poor scholarship or plagiarism lacked procedural fairness.

³ Adapted from Plagiarism Reference Tariff, Amber Project, plagiarismadvice.org, August 2010.

- 6.2. The purpose or scope of the internal review will not extend to a review of the merits of the decision.
- 6.3. Internal reviews must be submitted by email to the Head of School or delegate within 20 business days of the Notification of Outcome referred to in section 4.3(a) above.

7. Managing the internal review

- 7.1. The Head of School or their delegate, who was not involved in the initial decision-making process, will consider the internal review request and determine the outcome.
- 7.2. The student is to be notified by the Head of School or their delegate of the outcome of the internal review within 10 business days of receipt of the internal review request. The notification should include any action to be taken where an internal review is upheld (see Template 5, APPENDIX D).

8. Repeated instances of poor scholarship and plagiarism

- 8.1. The UNSW Conduct & Integrity Office will regularly monitor the UNSW Plagiarism Register to identify repeated instances of poor scholarship and plagiarism by a student.
- 8.2. Repeated instances of poor scholarship and plagiarism by a student may constitute a breach of the UNSW Code of Conduct and Values and will be managed by UNSW Conduct & Integrity Office as an allegation of Student Misconduct according to the UNSW Complaints Management and Investigations Policy & Procedure. If the repeated instance occurs in the first year of study, the behaviour may be considered as a misunderstanding of the academic standards required, however a warning notice will be issued reminding the student of their obligations to maintain academic integrity.
- 8.3. Repeated instances of poor scholarship and plagiarism, regardless of level, where a warning notice has been already issued, may be considered Student Misconduct.
- 8.4. Repeated instances that have been substantiated at or around the same time may be treated by Designated Officer within UNSW Conduct & Integrity Office as a single finding under this procedure.

9. Procedural fairness

- 9.1. The following principles of procedural fairness apply in handling all cases managed under this procedure:
 - be unbiased in their decision making;
 - ensure that decisions are soundly based, relying upon relevant information; and
 - ensure that students are afforded a fair hearing. This means inviting and considering student submissions, oral and/or written before a determination is made.
- 9.2. Matters should also be progressed promptly, and students should be advised of any likely delays on the part of the University.

10. Record keeping

All instances of poor scholarship and plagiarism must be recorded in the UNSW Plagiarism Register (maintained using CaseIQ).

11. Confidentiality

- 11.1. Information gathered in the processes outlined in this procedure are confidential and outcomes are not released to any external agency unless required by law or with the consent of the student.
- 11.2. Analysis and internal reporting of poor scholarship and plagiarism trends must be de-identified. Entries in the UNSW Plagiarism Register and the UNSW Student Misconduct Register may only be accessed by staff of UNSW Conduct & Integrity Office and nominated staff and affiliates located in Faculties and Schools.

12. Other matters

The University reserves the right to investigate and determine allegations of poor scholarship and plagiarism that may be outside the scope of this procedure where they are considered by the University to be of a serious nature and which may adversely impact upon UNSW, its programs or other students.

Dear [Student name]

I refer to your email dated [date] seeking to appeal the determination made by [name of SSIA] on [date].

According to Section 9 Procedural fairness of the Student Plagiarism Management Procedure, a student may appeal against a determination of student misconduct only on the grounds of lack of procedural fairness. Also known as 'natural justice', procedural fairness is a principle of law that is concerned with the procedures used by a decision-maker, rather than the actual outcome reached.

Key requirements of procedural fairness include:

1. Ensuring that respondents are provided with all necessary details of the allegations that have been made against them
2. Ensuring that respondents are given a proper opportunity to respond to the allegations in an appropriate way before a decision is made (including detail of any mitigating circumstances)
3. That persons involved in deciding an outcome do not have any bias or conflict of interest
4. That a decision is based only upon relevant material.
