About the Centres

The Social Policy Research Centre (SPRC) and Centre for Social Research in Health (CSRH) are specialist research centres based within UNSW Arts & Social Sciences.

Our researchers are leaders in their fields, with a strong reputation in the academic community, lending authority to our work and influence to public debate. We work as multidisciplinary teams that draw on each individual's area of expertise to inform our research and are committed to contributing to effective policy and practice by working in partnership with community, government and research partners.

The Centres also foster the talents of the next generation of social science researchers through support for early career researchers and our postgraduate research program.

We receive funding from a range of sources, including Australian and state and territory government departments, international funding agencies, research councils such as the Australian Research Council, competitive funding bodies, and a number of non-government and other partner organisations in Australia and abroad.

Our work in 2019 will continue to be guided by the following key objectives:

- Develop and respond to opportunities for research in our areas of interest and expertise
- Respond to emerging issues by initiating and developing new streams of research
- Maintain a skilled workforce recognised for their expertise, commitment and professionalism
- Attract and support research scholars
- Build and maintain our profile so that we continue to be regarded as pre-eminent social research centres
- Ensure our work serves the UNSW 2025 strategy and priorities of UNSW Arts & Social Sciences to achieve further academic excellence, global impact and social engagement.

Social Policy Research Centre

Founded in 1980 as Australia's first national research centre dedicated to shaping awareness of social welfare issues, we are recognised as one of the leading centres for research in social policy in Australia, generating real change for individuals and communities.

We are dedicated to making a positive impact through independent and leading research that explores the key social issues of poverty, inequality, wellbeing and justice. We also have unique expertise in evaluating government and industry programs to guide better practice and improved outcomes for individuals and communities.

Our vision is to improve social wellbeing and equity through influential social research in Australia and abroad.

Centre for Social Research in Health

Our mission is to undertake and promote exemplary social and behavioural science research in health that informs and strengthens knowledge, policy and practice.

Our research is guided by our commitment to:

- Integrity and excellence in academic research
- A multidisciplinary approach to research and education
- Actively ensuring our unique and critical perspectives are heard
- Collaboration and engagement with affected communities, and
- Valuing diversity and promoting equity.

Since its establishment in 1990 as the National Centre in HIV Social Research, the scope of our research program has evolved to influence and respond to a broad range of national and international health strategies and priorities, with the ultimate aim of improving the health and wellbeing of affected individuals and communities.

Our work is guided by the CSRH Strategic Plan 2016–2019. A primary driver for our work continues to be the Australian Government's five national strategies for blood-borne viruses and sexually transmissible infections (2018–2022). However, our portfolio of work continues to expand and highlights of new projects are included later in the report.

Director's Report

Welcome to the first combined Annual Report for both the Social Policy Research Centre and the Centre for Social Research in Health. Both Centres continue to run as separate entities and their achievements are listed separately. We have produced a combined annual report to reflect the shared administrative and support structure, and the growing collaboration and synergies across the Centres. There are many achievements and instances of leadership and impact from the Centres over 2018. Below, I've highlighted a few of these

A key change in 2018 was the farewell of David Cami who moved from Centre Associate Director to the position of Faculty Executive Director, first in Law and then with Arts and Social Sciences. David oversaw development of the Centres and continued to manage our complex business environment as we moved to a new administrative structure. Hanne Bjellaanes took up the role of Centre Manager after working in the research support team since 2016.

Two new teams joined the Centres in 2018, reflecting our strategic plan to diversify and broaden our interests. Professor Alex Broom, Dr Emma Kirby, Dr Katherine Kenny, Dr Sophie Lewis and Dr Rhiannon Parker joined the CSRH from the School of Social Sciences at UNSW bringing expertise in cancer care and antimicrobial stewardship. Further, the Drug Policy Modelling Program joined SPRC moving from the National Drug and Alcohol Research Centre (NDARC) at UNSW and we welcomed Professor Ritter, Dr

Katinka van de Ven, Dr Claire Wilkinson, Dr Thu Vuong, Michala Kowalski and Kim Beadman to our team.

In other moves, we welcomed new SHARP appointment Professor Tim Rhodes to CSRH along with Dr Rebecca Gray and Dr Alison Marshall to CSRH. Associate Professor Zhiming Cheng joined SPRC as Scientia Fellow along with Dr Jan Idle, Dr Qian Feng and Dr Paula Jops.

We farewelled Professor Deb Brennan with a wonderful event bringing many of her collaborators, colleagues and friends together to celebrate and acknowledge her many achievements in the field of early childhood education. Deb remains with SPRC as Emeritus Professor.

The role of the Centres hold a significant role in training the next generation of scholars. We celebrated the awards of PhD to SPRC graduates Dr Quanchai Kerddaen, Dr Qian Fang, Dr Jie Wang, Dr Zimin Tan and Dr Peter Davidson and of CSRH PhD graduates Dr Hilary Caldwell and Dr Nga Vu.

The expertise of SPRC researchers was also called upon at the second Forefront of Social Policy course held in Renmin University of China at which Associate Professor Bingqin Li, Dr Yuvisthi Naidoo and Dr Jen Skattebol gave keynote speeches.

The Centres remain as significant contributors in thought leadership and public debate. UNSW (through SPRC) launched its partnership with ACOSS including the release of the important Inequality in Australia 2018 report. Associate Professor Christy Newman presented at the CSRH's second Sex\(uality\) Lecture held in conjunction with Sydney Gay and Lesbian Mardi Gras. Both Centres continue to hold a seminar series to share and discuss leading work done by our own scholars and visitors. SPRC held 9 seminars in 2018 and CSRH held 15 seminars.

The Scholarly Achievements sections include further recognition of our CSRH and SPRC colleagues. It is tremendous to see the talent of our staff being recognised in awards for scholarship, advocacy and supervision.
