Summary of the Course

Subject Area: English
This course can also be studied in the following specialisation: Media, Culture and Technology

Widespread in the humanities at the moment is a rethinking of what it means to be human. In this course you will look at how literature and film use the nonhuman subjectivity of animals, monsters and machines to shape our understanding of the human. By examining the changing presentation of animals, monsters and machines in a range of texts from the seventeenth century through to the beginning of the twenty first century, you will investigate how aesthetic practices such as literature and film extend and test our sympathetic imagination by allowing us to inhabit subject positions that we are normally unable to inhabit. In taking this course, you will develop a sense of the ethical, social, political and philosophical value of literature and film.

Course Learning Outcomes

1. Examine how the notions of the human and the nonhuman animal have developed historically
2. Develop theoretical arguments about the use of the notions of the human and the nonhuman in literature and film
3. Articulate how animals, monsters and machines function as others to human selves in literature and film

Teaching Strategies

The lectures will rehearse the presentation of ideas and argument in relation to historical and theoretical conceptions of the role of animals, monsters and machines in literature. The lectures will be interactive, including time for student questions, and they will develop the student community of the course.

The seminars require detailed preparation, which forms the basis for high level discussion. Seminars will include both whole group discussions and small group discussions. The group presentation assessment requires students to lead the group discussion about a particular text for 30-40 mins in groups of 3 or 4. Students present a 5-minute paper on their own and then lead the class discussion for 15 minutes. This will help students to work together and to understand the intellectual needs of their peers.

The online support will include a repository of course information.
Assessment

You may use any of the standard referencing systems in the humanities (MLA, Chicago or Harvard) in your assessments. The main thing is to be consistent in how you reference.

Project Muse (muse.jhu.edu) and jstor (jstor.org) are excellent research databases for your assessments.

Assessment Details

Assessment 1: Research Exercise

Start date: Not Applicable

Length: 1000 words

Details: A 1000-word exercise preparing students for the long essay. Students will be asked to research secondary sources and identify a question emerging from those sources. Feedback provided via Turnitin.

Additional details:

Two of the key concepts we are learning about in the course are anthropomorphism and the grotesque. How does Franz Kafka use the concepts of anthropomorphism and the grotesque to criticise the idea of the human in his short story “A Report to an Academy”?

You are expected to draw on some secondary critical sources in your answer. This might include secondary criticism on Kafka’s story or the critical material on anthropomorphism and the grotesque which we have discussed in lectures and seminars.

Turnitin setting: This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students do not see Turnitin similarity reports.

Assessment 2: Long Essay

Start date: Not Applicable

Length: 2500 words

Details: 2500 word essay. Feedback provided via Turnitin.

Additional details:
This is a 2500-word essay, due on Tues May 7 (week 12). No questions will be set for this assignment. You are expected to develop your own question in consultation with your tutor. In your essay, you must analyse in detail three of the course’s set texts, but you may not discuss Kafka’s “A Report to an Academy” as one of these three. You are encouraged to discuss the text on which you presented in the seminars.

Turnitin setting: This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students do not see Turnitin similarity reports.
Attendance Requirements

- Attendance of lectures and seminars is mandatory in this course. Unexcused absence from more than 20% will result in the award of a fail grade.
- In seminars, you will actively engage with core course content that will enable you to demonstrate attainment of (or help you to attain) CLO 2 (Develop theoretical arguments about the use of the notions of the human and the nonhuman in literature and film) and CLO 3 (Articulate how animals, monsters and machines function as others to human selves in literature and film).
- In lectures, you will actively engage with core course content that will enable you to demonstrate attainment of (or help you to attain) CLO 1 (Examine how the notions of the human and the nonhuman animal have developed historically) and CLO 2 (Develop theoretical arguments about the use of the notions of the human and the nonhuman in literature and film).

Resources

Prescribed Resources

Primary texts

These texts are available from the UNSW bookshop. You may use other editions, if you already have them.

John Berger, About Looking (Bloomsbury)

Phillip K. Dick, Do Androids Dream of Electric Sheep? (Phoenix House)

Fritz Lang (Director), Metropolis (1927) [Film]. You are expected to see this film in your own time. It is available from the library.

Secondary texts

Some of these are available electronically from the UNSW library or from the academic databases jstor and Project Muse. Those that are not available electronically will be posted as PDFs on the course Moodle site.

Recommended Resources

Further recommended reading

All items with call numbers have been placed in High Use Collection of the Library. The UNSW Library website is http://www.library.unsw.edu.au/

Course Evaluation and Development

This is the first time that the course has run in the new 10-week term. Students will be encouraged to fill out online survey forms at the end of the course so that improvements may be made.
Submission of Assessment Tasks

Turnitin Submission

If you encounter a problem when attempting to submit your assignment through Turnitin, please telephone External Support on 9385 3331 or email them on externalteltsupport@unsw.edu.au. Support hours are 8:00am – 10:00pm on weekdays and 9:00am – 5:00pm on weekends (365 days a year). If you are unable to submit your assignment due to a fault with Turnitin you may apply for an extension, but you must retain your ticket number from External Support (along with any other relevant documents) to include as evidence to support your extension application. If you email External Support you will automatically receive a ticket number, but if you telephone you will need to specifically ask for one. Turnitin also provides updates on their system status on Twitter.

Generally, assessment tasks must be submitted electronically via either Turnitin or a Moodle assignment. In instances where this is not possible, it will be stated on your course’s Moodle site with alternative submission details.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another’s ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another’s ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person’s individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person’s academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person’s work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time
• understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
• be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of UNSW ICT Resources Policy
• be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
• locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library

Some of these areas will be familiar to you, others will be new. Gaining a solid understanding of all the related aspects of ELISE will help you make the most of your studies at UNSW.
