Summary of the Course

Subject Area: Music

This course examines Western Classical music performance in its cultural and historical contexts. Studying the aesthetic outlook, role and function of composers, performers and audiences from the Baroque period up to the 20th Century provides a forum for you to explore how performance styles change in tandem with shifting social norms, compositional prerogatives, and technological developments in instrument construction and more generally.

Being a Level 4 core course, it deepens knowledge gained and refines skills developed at Levels 1-3 musicology and performance lab courses. In particular, it builds on Music: A Panorama by revisiting some of the concepts, repertoire, and historical periods studied. It also complements Performance Lab courses by focusing on historical performing practices and styles of interpretation.

Course Learning Outcomes

1. Show an enhanced ability to analyze and evaluate cultural constructs as applicable to the practice of music
2. Demonstrate well developed communications skills that rely on advanced disciplinary knowledge and familiarity with critical theory and its uses in order to build coherent and convincing arguments
3. Convey a broader knowledge of repertoire and deeper understanding of its relationship to social, historical and cultural trends.

Teaching Strategies

The course enables students to further develop skills and knowledge expected of musicians performing, composing or writing about music. The focus is on deep reflection on a variety of social, cultural and historical developments pertaining to music and thus to foster the habit of critical inquiry and engagement. Discussion of compositions (genres and forms), intellectual and social trends helps to place music performance within the broader history of ideas and creative practices and highlights links between various eras and periods. The assignments expand on topics discussed in class (e.g. short paper, group work presentation) and provide opportunities to obtain deeper disciplinary knowledge (quiz) and critical engagement with primary sources and other texts (group work presentation); a better understanding of the relationship between broader cultural trends and musical practice (e.g. group work presentation, major project); and to refine research and academic reading/writing skills by exploring a chosen area in more detail (major project).

The course is taught through lectures and tutorials, with relevant assessment. The lectures (2 hours each week), will provide information, discuss selected readings, stimulate questions, and give musical examples through the use of audio-visual resources. While discussing a wide range of repertoire in its cultural-historical context, the lectures will introduce students to key authors on performance, instrumental techniques, and musical aesthetics as well as relevant disciplinary debates. The tutorials will enable students to deepen their understanding of these issues through debates and discussions (including group work), examination of audio-visual examples and critical engagement with set readings.
Individual and self-directed learning is developed by encouraging students to select their own examples for study in the short writing task and also by requiring them to devise their own major project in consultation with the lecturer.
Assessment

References must be formatted as per the Turabian/Chicago Manual of Style footnoting system. All assignments must be submitted as an email attachment (Microsoft Word documents only) to g.luikens@unsw.edu.au Please refer to the instructions as to the finer details regarding submitting assignments correctly. These instructions can be found on the course’s Moodle page, as can a detailed explanation of assessment and marking guidelines.

Resources

Prescribed Resources

Mandatory readings are organised by week and are provided on the course’s Moodle page as a pdf document, or made available via a link. Extension readings will be made available on an ad hoc basis depending on student interest. Access to Taruskin’s History of Western Music is required; this text is available for free as an E-book via the UNSW Library website. Hard copies of each volume are also available from the library. A listening list is provided on the course’s Moodle page; all works are available via commercial streaming, Naxos online, or YouTube.

Recommended Resources

Course Evaluation and Development

Student feedback is keenly requested to allow further fine-tuning and improvements in future years. Formal myExperience evaluations will be used at the end of semester but students are encouraged to provide feedback throughout the semester on course content and assignments as well as the pacing of the course, either face to face or to g.luikens@unsw.edu.au All feedback will be discussed among music staff and the lecturer will work closely to monitor student progress and learning needs. Course content, mode of delivery and assignment schedule may all be adjusted in future years if it can be established that such changes would foster deeper learning and better outcome for students.
Submission of Assessment Tasks

Submission of Assessment Tasks

Turnitin Submission

If you encounter a problem when attempting to submit your assignment through Turnitin, please telephone External Support on 9385 3331 or email them on externalteltsupport@unsw.edu.au. Support hours are 8:00am – 10:00pm on weekdays and 9:00am – 5:00pm on weekends (365 days a year). If you are unable to submit your assignment due to a fault with Turnitin you may apply for an extension, but you must retain your ticket number from External Support (along with any other relevant documents) to include as evidence to support your extension application. If you email External Support you will automatically receive a ticket number, but if you telephone you will need to specifically ask for one. Turnitin also provides updates on their system status on Twitter.

Generally, assessment tasks must be submitted electronically via either Turnitin or a Moodle assignment. In instances where this is not possible, it will be stated on your course’s Moodle site with alternative submission details.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another’s ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another’s ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person’s individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person’s academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person’s work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time
