Summary of the Course

Subject Area: Media, Culture and Technology

This course examines the complex relations between the media, society, politics and culture, exploring the diverse ways in which the media influence and are influenced by developments in social and political culture. The Media Capstone will address topical issues relating to media, technology and culture. It will use recent developments and current case studies drawn from a variety of sources such as news and entertainment, debates on social media and new information technologies, media campaigns, and popular culture to examine the broader socio-political context in which the media are located. Using key theories and concepts, this course will explore a range of relevant issues that demonstrate the centrality of the media to contemporary culture.

Course Learning Outcomes

1. Demonstrate an understanding of cultural, economic and political dynamics arising from relations between media and culture
2. Display the ability to critically investigate the implications of these relationships on populations, the self, and a range of media institutions
3. Demonstrate skills in analytic writing and the rigorous application of theoretical concepts to everyday examples of cultural and media value
4. Show an ability to think independently, critically and creatively about value formations resulting from the relation between media and culture
5. Demonstrate an ability to develop research capacities in a media area of specific interest

Teaching Strategies

This is the level 3 Media Capstone course. It builds on skills developed and knowledge gained in levels 1 and 2 courses, and allows students to develop skills in higher order analysis and self-directed learning. The course is delivered via a lecture and a seminar each week. Seminars will be open to dialogue and discussion, with the aim of exploring the readings and related case studies and questions in a collaborative and rigorous way.

The course is not about rote learning, but rather involves actively thinking about and engaging with a number of key issues, developments, concepts, perspectives, theories and debates. As this is a Capstone course, students are expected to demonstrate a strong grasp of media issues, contexts, theories and ethics which have been honed through previous coursework. Students are expected to take control of their own learning, rather than passively waiting for information to be delivered. This will assist in their transition into the workforce.

All students are expected to come to each seminar well prepared with notes on the readings and from the lectures, as well as any ideas or issues they want to pursue. The readings are intended to be thought provoking and students will need to devote at least 4-5 hours per week to preparation. The course is aimed at building productive and lively communities of inquiry.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another’s ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another’s ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person’s individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person’s academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person’s work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time
• understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
• be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of UNSW ICT Resources Policy
• be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
• locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library

Some of these areas will be familiar to you, others will be new. Gaining a solid understanding of all the related aspects of ELISE will help you make the most of your studies at UNSW.
