Summary of the Course

Writing performs. It not only describes the world, it actively re-shapes it. Writing structures thought, feeling, encounter and memory. In Writing for Performance, you will explore a variety of theatrical and performative modes of writing. You will learn how to use writing to make performance happen. Your writing could be delivered live by a performer or performers in a theatre, encountered by a seated or mobile audience, experienced through media such as headphones or hypertext, or some other combination. Through weekly lectures, guided workshops and exercises outside class, we will take inspiration from the way language works all around us, whether in the theatre or beyond.

Course Learning Outcomes

1. Select and utilize appropriate practice-based approaches to compositional modes from a range of current practices.
2. Test and assess the relationship between the form of a performance text and its content, contextualising your work in relation to other writers.
3. Realise the creation of a written performance text that responds to specific performance intentions, framed through an awareness of its conditions of reception by a real or potential audience.

Teaching Strategies

This course is taught through weekly lectures, which will introduce key concepts and approaches as well as modelling different forms of writing for performance. You will also undertake independent reading and writing exercises in preparation for guided workshops, which will introduce further exercises to develop your writing. You will be asked to try forms of writing that may be unfamiliar to you, leading toward a 10-minute performance text for which you will be able to choose any of the models (or mix of models) for your final presentation.
Assessment

At present, we plan to have a semi-public sharing of work-in-progress of your performance-writing projects during the longer lecture slot in Week 10: Tuesday, 17 November 9am-12pm. Obviously this will depend on restrictions on physical gathering, and may be shifted online as necessary.

Sharing is optional, but attendance is required. Please make sure that you are free.

Assessment Details

Assessment 1: Practice portfolio

Start date:

Details:

Selection of 3 pieces of creative writing (approx. 500 words) each that are developed versions of in-class and at-home writing tasks from the first 5 weeks. Assessed by rubric.

Turnitin setting: This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students can see Turnitin similarity reports.

Assessment 2: Critical enquiry

Start date:

Details:

Critically analyse an example of writing for performance in response to one of the set questions, and identify themes and modes of writing you will use in your final creative work for this course. 1250-1500 words. Feedback via Turnitin.

Turnitin setting: This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students can see Turnitin similarity reports.

Assessment 3: Performance writing project

Start date:
Details:

Writing for performance developed in weeks 8-10, as playscript, monologue, hypertext, score, etc. 10 minutes / 1000-1500 words. Feedback via Turnitin comments.

Turnitin setting: This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students can see Turnitin similarity reports.
Attendance Requirements

Lectures will be available online, with the exception of week 10 when we plan to use the longer lecture slot to share work-in-progress with each other (see note above).

As a practice-based course, tutorials for this course are presently scheduled to run face-to-face in T3 2020. All tutorials will take place in the Io Myers Studio in the Esme Timbery Creative Practice Lab, where there is space for 50 people to gather safely according to current government guidelines. Face-to-face teaching will allow us to write together in real-time, responding to different kinds of space, modes of address, and creative constraints supplied by the course convenor.

If circumstances require that the course move partially or entirely online, alternative teaching and sharing arrangements will be put in place, with more emphasis on asynchronous tasks in order to minimise online fatigue.

In tutorials you will actively engage with core course content that will enable you to demonstrate attainment of (or help you to attain) CLO 1 (“Select and utilize appropriate practice-based approaches to compositional modes from a range of current practices”).

Viewing of all lectures and attendance at all tutorials (whether they are face-to-face or online) is mandatory in this course. Unexcused absence from more than 20% of classes will result in the award a fail grade.

Submission of Assessment Tasks

Turnitin Submission

If you encounter a problem when attempting to submit your assignment through Turnitin, please telephone External Support on 9385 3331 or email them on externaltelsupport@unsw.edu.au. Support hours are 8:00am – 10:00pm on weekdays and 9:00am – 5:00pm on weekends (365 days a year). If you are unable to submit your assignment due to a fault with Turnitin you may apply for an extension, but you must retain your ticket number from External Support (along with any other relevant documents) to include as evidence to support your extension application. If you email External Support you will automatically receive a ticket number, but if you telephone you will need to specifically ask for one. Turnitin also provides updates on their system status on Twitter.

Generally, assessment tasks must be submitted electronically via either Turnitin or a Moodle assignment. In instances where this is not possible, it will be stated on your course’s Moodle site with alternative submission details.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another’s ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another’s ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person’s individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person’s academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person’s work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time
• understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
• be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of UNSW ICT Resources Policy
• be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
• locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library

Some of these areas will be familiar to you, others will be new. Gaining a solid understanding of all the related aspects of ELISE will help you make the most of your studies at UNSW.
