3. COURSE DETAILS

Course Name	Indigenous Perspectives in Education
Credit Points	6 units of credit (uoc)
Workload	Includes 150 hours including class contact hours, readings, class preparation, assessment, follow up activities, etc.
Schedule	http://classutil.unsw.edu.au/EDST_T2.html

SUMMARY OF THE COURSE

The course will introduce students to current research and theoretical frameworks that are known to assist educators with developing the skills and knowledge to critically reflect on the role and influence of cultural beliefs and perspectives on schooling practices. A central focus for the course is preparing students to meet the Australian Professional Standards that directly concern Indigenous education: the teaching of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students (AITSL 1.4), and the embedding of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander perspectives, histories and heritage across the curriculum (AITSL 2.4).

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

Outcome
1	identify, evaluate and justify curriculum and pedagogical practices in relation to Indigenous education.
2	explain what the professional, political and personal responsibilities of an educator are in relation to Indigenous education.
3	develop suitable skills and strategies to work effectively with diverse Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders peoples, perspectives, and histories.
4	respect and value Indigenous sovereignties and the ability to genuinely promote Reconciliation through education.

AITSL PROFESSIONAL GRADUATE TEACHING STANDARDS

Standard
1.2.1	Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of research into how students learn and the implications for teaching
1.4.1	Demonstrate broad knowledge and understanding of the impact of culture, cultural identity and linguistic background on the education of students from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander backgrounds
2.4.1	Demonstrate broad knowledge of, understanding of and respect for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories, cultures and languages
7.2.1	Understand the relevant legislative, administrative and organisational policies and processes required for teachers according to school stage
7.3.1	Understand strategies for working effectively, sensitively and confidentially with parents/carers
7.4.1	Understand the role of external professional and community representatives in broadening teachers' professional knowledge and practice

NATIONAL PRIORITY AREA ELABORATIONS

Priority area
A: Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Education	A 1-12
B: Classroom Management	B4
C: Information and Communication Technologies	C6 & 12
D: Literacy and Numeracy	D4
E: Students with Special Educational Needs	-
F: Teaching Students from Non-English-Speaking Backgrounds	F3, 5, 9 & 11

4. RATIONALE FOR THE INCLUSION OF CONTENT AND TEACHING APPROACH

The teaching, learning, and assessment activities in this course are designed to provide students with the skills, knowledge and disposition to assist them with developing an informed and critically aware approach to working with Indigenous students and the embedding of Indigenous knowledges, perspectives and histories in teaching and learning. The course is underpinned by a relational approach to critically engaging with the political, ethical and philosophical framing of what has come to be known as 'Indigenous education' in Australia. The teaching approach works with a culturally responsive framing that aims to foster a socio-political consciousness that can sustain transformative future education practices.

5. TEACHING STRATEGIES

You are expected to attend the lecture and one 1-hour tutorial each week. The lectures and tutorials will provide conceptual and theoretical frameworks from which particular topical issues can be understood. The tutorials are designed to supplement independent study.

You should come to each tutorial:

- having read the required reading;
- having made notes on the reading and on any pertinent and/or unclear areas of your reading;
- having read as much additional material as possible; and
- having prepared carefully to engage in debate and other learning activities as relevant each week.

After each tutorial you should:

- consolidate and review your notes and additional materials;
- research and read around specific issues and areas of interest;
- consider points raised in discussion and/or feedback you've been given;
- prepare, plan, research and draft assignments.

Moodle Site

- We will be using Moodle to support the learning and teaching activities of this course. It will be used for communication and discussion, as well as the submission of assignments.
- Using Moodle will also provide you with an easy access point to the Library resource site for this course. This will provide access to your tutorial readings, the recommended reading list that you consult when undertaking both Assessment tasks. In particular you will find the Films for Assessment 2, and a wide range of other materials that will deepen your understanding of the course outcomes and content.
- You can access Moodle via the TELT Gateway.

Online Resources

The Library runs the ELISE tutorial on-line, which familiarises students with academic writing, research and using information responsibly. It can be located at <http://elise.library.unsw.edu.au/home/welcome.html>. We also recommend that you make use of the ELISE library tutorial on-line, which can be found at

<http://elise.library.unsw.edu.au/mod5/library.html>

6. COURSE CONTENT AND STRUCTURE

This course is based around reading – this cannot be emphasised enough: if you do not at the very least do the essential set reading/s for the tutorials, you will find it difficult to contribute to discussions or do well in your assessment.

Module	Lecture	Reading
Lecture 1 3 June	An introduction to the landscape of Aboriginal education Dr Kevin Lowe & Ms Anna Rutkowska Course welcome and overview. In this lecture, we will introduce the policy, curriculum and pedagogical challenges and opportunities encountered in the landscape of Aboriginal education – why is this course now compulsory in teacher education? What this course will and will not address? The second focus of this lecture will be given by a senior member of the library staff. They will address some of the general and course specific research questions, use of Moodle and the links to course research materials.	Stanesby & Thomas (ch 5) ‘Seeing the invisible’ In Introductory Indigenous studies in education Phillips & Lampert
Lecture 2 [online lecture] 10 June	Coming to know a diverse community Dr Kevin Lowe As this week’s lecture will be online due to the public holiday, you are required to view the lecture in your own time as an attendance requirement. This session will delve into the complex concept of identity and discuss how this issue can impact on teaching and learning in the classroom. More specifically, the focus of the week will be on developing a nuanced understanding of the diverse, pluralised, contextualised and dynamic identities in schooling today. We will look at why it is important to understand identity-work as being fluid and constant, rather than static and pre-determined	Shay, Marnee ‘The perceptions that shape us’ Ch6 Understanding sociological theory for educational practices Ferfolja, Jones-Diaz, Ullman
Lecture 3 17 June	The policy context – closing ‘gaps’, curricular priorities and making good teachers Mr Anthony Galluzzo - NSW DET Aboriginal education and engagement Officer This week we will further explore education policies that shape Aboriginal education. In particular, the lecture will discuss concerns linked with efforts to ‘close the achievement gap’, embedding the Cross-Curricular priorities, and the AITSL Professional Teacher Standards – what is the policy climate asking of you as a future teacher?	Whatman & Duncan (Ch. 8) ‘Learning from the past’ In Introductory Indigenous studies in education Phillips & Lampert
Lecture 4 24 June	Aboriginal student pedagogies: working productively with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students Guest presenter: Dr Cathie Burgess. Sydney University This week we will build on our understanding of identities and learning and the importance of contexts. Lecture 5 1 July	Building for success – What do students and parents tell us about educational success Dr Lyn Riley Sydney University This week, Dr Riley will focus on her work with students and parents and outline her extensive research with Aboriginal students This research highlighted how stakeholders should work together to ensure successful educational outcomes for Aboriginal students and provides an overview of ‘4’ key dimensions and their conditions which assist to support successful academic outcomes for Aboriginal students. In the second part of the lecture, will focus on the place of Aboriginal families and communities, and the role that they have played in affecting the education of their children in school. Dr Riley will highlight how teachers need to reorientate thinking such that they can understand the needs of Aboriginal students, and how families can be significant allies in understanding the needs of students and the histories of the communities in which they work	McLaughlin et al (Ch. 11 ‘Parent-school partnerships’ In Introductory Indigenous studies in education Phillips & Lampert
Lecture 6 8 July	Unknowing an ‘imagined’ history Dr Kevin Lowe This week we will interrogate the ‘peaceful settler’ narrative that continues to serve as the basis for how Australian history, and hence, the relationships between Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal Australia, are ‘known’ and represented – how are you connected with this history, and why does it matter? Please you are required to register for one of the off campus Walk on Country sessions at La Pouse. Make sure that you register to attend one of the three sessions – Monday, Tuesday or Friday of next week.	Phillips (Ch. 2) ‘Indigenous knowledge perspectives’ In Introductory Indigenous studies in education Phillips & Lampert
Lecture 7 15 July	Why learn about Aboriginal perspectives, what to learn, and different ways of learning Guest presenter: Rubee McManus (Moree Senior College) Rubee is a third year out teacher and postgraduate alumni of UNSW. She in a non-Aboriginal educator, was born on Guringgai land and has Irish/English heritage. She is currently working in a high school in a rural setting and will share her experiences of coming to terms with a colonised Australia during her late teens and early 20s and share her process of decolonising her thinking and doing. This personal account will reveal the embodiment of colonialism many mainstream Australians hold and give insight into how it might be unpacked as a crucial starting point for any socially just teacher teaching on Aboriginal land. She will also share how this de-colonial thinking plays out for her in her teaching role. It is hoped that you will learn how teaching Aboriginal students and existing in an Aboriginal space is an intra- and inter-personal craft and that it's not impossible to do as a non-Aboriginal person, as long as you are willing to do the work and come from a place of self-awareness and respect. As the tours are scheduled when many of the tutorials are scheduled, you will need to do a do a short reflective journal (500 words) response to your participation. See attached sheet under the Walk on Country tab.	Reflection Journal on the Walk on Country activity [see this activity in Moodle] Strongly suggest that you read the following short paper by Lowe and Yunkaporta on the Australian Curriculum Lowe & Yunkaporta ‘The inclusion of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander content in the national curriculum’

	This week we will build on our understanding from last week to consider the critical and informed practices that teachers can take up in working with Aboriginal oral traditions, pedagogies, knowledges, histories and heritage in constructive, thoughtful, engaging and culturally responsive ways in teaching and learning – how and why can engaging deeply with theory and the politics of schooling help shape your approach to T&L in the classroom? The sessions will illuminate issues such as effect of engagement – building and creating new ways of knowing and its impact on the acts of teaching. Lecture 9 29 July	Racism, tokenism, and Aboriginalism in teaching and learning Dr Kevin Lowe and Sara Mashayekh This week we examine schooling practices that contribute to preserving and protecting concerns to do with race, and we also will look into some of the misconceptions and misunderstandings about Aboriginal knowledges, histories and heritage that can influence teaching and learning practices in problematic ways – and why racism and stereotyping continue as an everyday practice? Drawing on the first part of the lecture, Sara will focus on the important role that the acts of racism can play in educational settings and what this means for teachers and policy makers.	Moodie, N., J. Lecture 10 5 August	Responsibility, complicity, and positionality: Being the teacher you want to become Dr Kevin Lowe & Daniel Anson This week we consider issues of responsibility, complicity, and positionality. The focus will be on examining your role as a teacher, and how the issues raised in this course might influence the way you understand the theory and practice of teaching. We will draw on the content and learning that you take away from this course and argue that you will need to apply this to your work in the landscape of Aboriginal education. articulating your philosophical, ethical and political vision for working in the landscape of Aboriginal education – what sort of a teacher to you want to be?	Lampert (Ch. 6) 'Becoming a socially just teacher' In Introductory Indigenous studies in education Phillips & Lampert

Assessment Details

ASSESSMENT 1: Teacher 'standpoint' statement

Purpose/s:

- (i) Critically reflect on your location and understanding of the AITSL 1.4 requirements; and
- (ii) Identify, outline and justify how you will approach the curricula and pedagogic practices connected with improving the engagement and achievements of Indigenous students.

Due: Friday 5th July

Weight: 45%

Length: 1500 words

The task:

This task is designed to provide you with an opportunity to develop a deeper understanding of the professional role, responsibilities and practices involved in effectively addressing and improving the engagement and achievement of Indigenous learners in schooling. Hence, the major focus for this task is the AITSL Professional Standard 1.4.

To complete this task ...

Use your research skills to locate and critically engage with relevant academic literature to create a personal statement that frames your 'teacher standpoint', responsibilities and future approach to working with Indigenous students. Your 'standpoint' statement will need to address the following issues in terms of explaining what you plan to do as a teacher, and importantly why this approach is suitable/responsive for Indigenous students:

- Your identity and cultural location – understanding your own background and how it shapes your world view;
- The diversity of student identities – avoiding deficits and stereotypes; working with plurality and fluidity; understanding the importance of context;
- Family and community – effectively and meaningfully engaging your students' families and communities in decision-making connected with schooling;
- Curriculum and pedagogy – considering 'good practices' for the classroom; and
- The Australian Professional Standards for Teachers – your professional role and responsibilities.

Please Note: Your task should include an introduction and conclusion, with the issues outlined above being used as sub-headings that help structure your task. For this task, a minimum of eight (8) quality sources should be used to support the task. You are encouraged to use the extensive reading list which will readily available using the Library (Leganto) tab from the Course Moodle site page.

ASSESSMENT 2: Using resources to support teaching and learning

Purpose/s:

- (i) Examine and critically reflect on Indigenous knowledges systems and representations of communities;
- (ii) investigate and comment on curricular and pedagogical considerations regarding the use of Indigenous oriented resources for teaching and learning in the classroom; and
- (iii) develop your familiarity with, and ability to use, ICT for the purpose educational assessment.

Due: Wednesday 14th August

Weight: 55%

Length: 5-minute presentation + 1500 words

The task:

This task is designed to give students the opportunity to critically consider what is involved with using resources that include a focus on Indigenous representations, knowledges, heritage and/or histories. This task aligns with the AITSL Professional Standard 2.4, which requires all teachers to embed Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander perspectives in the curriculum. The task will provide students with a strong foundation to consider the ethical, political, and social justice implications that are connected with this undertaking.

To complete this task ...

1. Students must choose one (1) of the following movies as the focus of their response. These movies are considered acceptable and suitable for use in high school classrooms, they could be used in a number of different teaching areas (e.g. History, Drama, Aboriginal Studies, Art, Legal Studies, Music). All the movies are available through the library.
 - (a) Perkins, R. (Director). (2009). Bran Nue Day. Australia: Roadshow Films.
 - (b) Purcell, L. (Director). (2015). Brave new clan. Australia: CAAMA Productions.
 - (c) Petersen, A. (Director). (2016). Zach's Ceremony. Australia: Umbrella Entertainment.
 - (d) Firth, J. & Grant, S. (Director). (2013). CQ: Indigenous Cultural Intelligence. Australia: NITV.
 - (e) Kavanagh, A. & Briggs, A. (2016). Over-Represented: A vice special on Indigenous incarceration. Australia: Vice.
 - (f) De Heer, R. & Djigirr, P. (2006). Ten Canoes. Australia: Madmen Entertainment.
 - (g) Dean, B. (2013). The biggest estate: 9000 years ago to 1788. Australia: Screen Australia.
2. You will locate relevant academic literature that is relevant to critical Indigenous studies in your teaching area. It is expected that for this task you will refer to a minimum of five (5) academic sources - government reports/policies, curriculum documents and webpages are considered 'professional literature' and will not count towards your 5 academic sources".
3. Use the literature to investigate suggestions regarding 'good practice' use of resources in the classroom. This should focus in particular on the curricular and pedagogical practices that teachers must consider in connection with what should be avoided and why, but more importantly, what can be done, how, and why.
4. Identify at least one suitable element of the 'learning area statement' from the ACARA Cross-Curriculum Priorities (CCP) that is relevant to your main teaching discipline (e.g. English, Math, Science). An important element of this task is you demonstrating the ability to establish a logical and relevant link between the formal learning statements and the use of the film in the classroom. The CCP's can be accessed at: <https://www.australiancurriculum.edu.au/f-10-curriculum/cross-curriculum-priorities/aboriginal-and-torres-strait-islander-histories-and-cultures/>
5. Prepare a 1500 word 'brief' that provides a concise summary of key issues to consider when including this resource for teaching and learning in support of the learning outcome you identified. A scaffold will be developed and placed in Moodle to assist you to complete this task.
6. The other element of the task involves developing a 5-minute video-blog. For this, you should construct the clip as if other teachers in a school/faculty were your audience. The focus of the video component to see this as a professional resource that informs your colleagues (teachers) how you the film can be used to support them to meet the learning area content statement from the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander CCP
 - # Please note one: Do not be you reading the written 'brief', to do so will impact on your overall result for this task. Better – think of yourself having the role of explaining as concisely as possible, why and how the resource will meet the learning outcome/s.
 - # Please note two: Keep in mind that the use of these films in high school teaching and learning contexts may involve selectively showing only 5-10 minutes of the film.
