SUMMARY OF COURSE
This course will focus on organisation theory for educators. It draws from the full range of literature on organisations, but it focuses that literature on the specific experiences of education.

THE MAIN WAYS IN WHICH THE COURSE HAS CHANGED SINCE LAST TIME AS A RESULT OF STUDENT FEEDBACK:

- A new case study has been developed for the course to better explain and demonstrate different approaches to organizational theory in education;
- Additional resources have been developed (e.g., animation, introductory videos, slides) to support student learning in the blended environment;
- Readings have been made available through the University Library’s Leganto system to ensure seamless access to resources; and
- A/Prof Eacott returns from sabbatical to teach the course.

4. RATIONALE FOR THE INCLUSION OF CONTENT AND TEACHING APPROACH

This course is included to enable students to develop an understanding of organisations that will enhance their practice as leaders of education organisations. It reflects a view that different theories of organisations can assist leaders to design and manage organisations so that they operate efficiently, effectively and responsibly.

5. TEACHING STRATEGIES

As in any graduate course, students and faculty need to be co-owners of the class and collectively responsible for its quality and outcomes. I will take responsibility for the overall design and direction of the course and for the academic requirements, but the course will be (primarily) facilitated as a seminar or inquiry in which all participants hold themselves and each other accountable for a rigorous and robust intellectual dialogue and debate.

The formation of the class requires that each person come prepared to take an active role in class discussion. This means not only having read the assigned materials, but also being prepared to discuss salient issues, questions, and problems emerging from the readings and to utilize your knowledge and professional experiences to address the focus questions posed by the lecturer. Class participation (both during face-to-face classes and online discussion boards) also involves opening oneself to challenge and to be challenged by the ideas and topics of the seminars.

Background Readings

6. COURSE CONTENT AND STRUCTURE

This course employs a blended learning approach. It includes two Sunday seminars with collaborative online learning using the MOODLE Learning Management System. Structurally, the course consists of two modules, each with an assessment task: i) What is an organization?; and ii) Applying organizational theory.

SCHEDULE AND READING LIST

DAY ONE: What is an organization?

Day one consists of two lectures and four seminars. The initial lecture provides an overview of the history of organization theory in education and an analytical framework for categorizing different approaches. The four seminars provide greater depth and examples of the different categories of the analytical framework. Concluding the day is a synthesis lecture that links the topics and assessment task one.

Lecture 1a: An introduction to organization theory in education

Overview: As an introduction to the course, this lecture will provide a synopsis of theory in educational administration and leadership since the early 1900s with particular reference to works focused on organizations and organizing. The course takes the assumption that organizing is relational.

Focus question: How have we come to understand organizations in education?

Essential readings (further readings will be provided on Moodle)

Seminar 1a: Adjectival models

Overview: This seminar explores adjectival approaches to organization theory. Particular attention granted to the way in which pre-existing (a priori) normative orientations shape the development of argument and what is seen as an effective (successful, great, etc.) organization.

Focus question: Do adjectival approaches tell us more about the observer than they do organization?

Essential reading

Seminar 1b: Co-determinist models

Overview: This seminar explores co-determinist approaches to organizational theory. Built on system thinking (particularly through Parsons, and Getzels & Guba), these approaches identify parts of an organization and measure their contribution to organizational functioning.

Focus question: How have co-determinist approaches contributed to our understanding of organizations and interventions to improve outcomes?

Essential reading

Seminar 1c: Conflationary approaches

Overview: Following substantial critique of co-determinist approaches and their atomizing effect on organization theory, some scholars have offered conflationary (where two previously separated entities/ideas are treated as a single object) approaches.

Focus question: What are some of the problems and possibilities of conflationary ways of thinking?

Essential reading

Seminar 1d: Relational approaches

Overview: This seminar offers insights into an emerging research program that focuses on not structures (e.g., organizations) or agency (e.g., leadership) but relations (e.g., organizing activity) and how we (as authors) generate the contexts (e.g., spatio-temporal conditions) in which we relate.

Focus question: What can the relational approach offer for understanding organizing?

Essential reading

Lecture 1b: Organization theory in education

Overview: This lecture will bring the first day to a conclusion by providing a synopsis of the content, dialogue and debate, and ongoing problems and possibilities of organization theory in education.
DAY TWO: Applying organizational theory

Lecture 2a: Applying organizational theory

Overview: Initially, this lecture will recap of the first part of the course and engaging with key dialogue and debate raised before exploring a causal logic from enacting organizational theory in education. Following James Ladwig (2010), summarizing this logic in sequential steps, it can be characterized as: i) a perceived organizational need and its translation into a desired outcome; ii) development of an organization theory for that normative requirement; iii) development of programs / structures; iv) implementation of programs / structures; v) production and measurement of outcomes; and vi) transporting those outcomes beyond the organization.

Focus question: How can we mobilize our approach to organizational theory to improve outcomes?

Essential reading

Seminar 2a: Developing criteria for our version of organization

Overview: This session will build upon the learning in the course to this point and is primarily concerned with participants establishing the criteria from which they can assess their organization. To do this requires clarity of one’s position on organizational theory (e.g., the first part of the course) and bringing that into conversation with practice.

Focus question: How do I know if my organization is effective?

Seminar 2b: Leading an educational organization

Overview: This session explicitly builds on the previous seminar to think through the criteria for an effective organization and how to lead such an organization. The key outcome here is explicitly bringing one’s theory of organization into practice.

Focus question: How do I use my theory of organization to effective lead?

Lecture 2b: Organization theory in education

Overview: This final lecture will bring the course to a conclusion by providing a synopsis of the content, dialogue and debate, and ongoing problems and possibilities of organization theory in education.

Submission of assessments

Students are required to follow their lecturer’s instructions when submitting their work for assessment. All assessment will be submitted online via Moodle by 5pm. Students are also required to keep all drafts, original data and other evidence of the authenticity of the work for at least one year after examination. If an assessment is mislaid the student is responsible for providing a further copy. Please see the Student Policies and Procedures for information regarding submission, extensions, special consideration, late penalties and hurdle requirements etc. https://education.arts.unsw.edu.au/students/courses/course-outlines/
Assessment Details

Assessment Task 1 – What is an organisation? (Online Discussion)

Weight: 60% (6 topics x 10%)
Length: 3,000 words (across six topics)
Submission: Online via posts to your work group’s weekly discussion board in Moodle
Purpose: To analyse and make sense of education organisations through engagement with theories of organisations

Task: To complete the first part of the course, you are expected to make regular weekly, topic-based posts on the reading/s for the week in your work group’s weekly discussion board. Discussions begin each week with a general stimulus or focus question posted by the Course Convenor and it is expected that your contributions will demonstrate both an understanding of the reading/s and sustain group discussion. In addition, you are expected to respond to the post of a peer (therefore, a minimum of two posts per topic). Marks (n=10) will be assigned for each of the six topics of this part of the course.

Assessment Task 2 – Applying organisational theory to leadership practice (Analytical Paper)

Weight: 40%
Length: 2,000 words
Purpose: To explicitly apply organisational theory to issues of leadership practice in education organisations

Task: In this paper you are asked to critically analyse the leadership practice in your current organisation in relation to improving student learning outcomes and experience. It is expected, that with justification grounded in scholarly literatures including the organisational theory literature, you will identify the problems associated with current leadership practices and articulate what changes you would make for the purpose of improving performance.

Assessment Criteria, Grading & Feedback

Assessment Task 1

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Mark</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>0</td>
<td>Posts are late and/or do not deal with significant concepts from the set text(s)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1-2</td>
<td>Some key concepts are mentioned and/or referenced to the readings, but the level of engagement is limited, shows significant error or focuses on unrelated ideas or concepts.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3-4</td>
<td>A significant idea from the set readings may be addressed in the online contributions, but an explicit focus on key concepts is not sustained. Examples may be tangential, not used, or just discussed not critiqued.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5-6</td>
<td>The contributions are coherently structured and develop a critical argument, using an appropriate range of vocabulary, terminology, and examples.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7-8</td>
<td>The problem(s) and approach are set out clearly, and different arguments are presented critically, with a good understanding of the material, using vocabulary, terminology and language that relate clearly to the question.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9-10</td>
<td>The issues and approach are set out clearly, critical arguments are exceptionally well developed, and there is a clear and complete understanding of the material, vocabulary and terminology. Examples used will relate directly to the question.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

An individual grade will be provided and cohort-level feedback on the discussion.

Assessment Task 2

Your paper will be marked, and feedback provided against the criteria included in the feedback sheet provided below.
