SUMMARY OF COURSE

In this course you are introduced to education policy, education policy debates, and some of the major issues facing Australian and international education policymakers. The course aims to increase your understanding of the complexities, advantages, and limitations of education policy and to assist you in becoming effective leaders and practitioners who inform, shape, and influence education policy. The course has a particular focus on federal and state policy in education, including the impact of education policy on schools and students; the interests of stakeholders in designing education policy; the theories of change underpinning education policy initiatives; the implementation challenges of policy approaches, and the impact of various reform strategies on building teaching capacity, accountability, and improving learning for all students. You will develop “policy skills” through writing a policy brief and writing policy-based commentary analysing an aspect of one of the policy issues examined in this course.

THE MAIN WAYS IN WHICH THE COURSE HAS CHANGED SINCE LAST TIME AS A RESULT OF STUDENT FEEDBACK:

- The course focuses more closely on educational contexts of policy rather than policy on a wider/broader scale.

Assessment Details

Assessment 1

Analyse an existing policy document related to school education.

The policy may exist at school, state or federal level. Drawing on Bacchi (2009), prepare a 2000w analysis of the policy that:

1. Identifies the 'problem' being addressed;
2. Identifies assumptions underlying this representation of the 'problem';
3. Explores the history behind the policy and how it came about;
4. Identifies the silences within the policy;
5. Identifies the potential effects of the policy;
6. Suggests how this representation of the 'problem' could be questioned, disrupted or replaced.

Draw on academic and policy documents as appropriate to support your response.

Bacchi, C. (2009). Analysing policy: What's the problem represented to be? Frenchs Forest: Pearson Education.

Assessment 2

Prepare and analyse a policy brief for a policymaker.

Part 1: Policy Brief

Write a memo to a state or federal policymaker, addressing a particular issue in education policy. Present your position on this issue, i.e. how you think it should be addressed.

Part 2: Analysis of Policy Brief

Reflect upon the 'solution' you have put forward in Part 1. Using your knowledge of the research literature, explore the dynamics of the policy 'problem', including the various ways in which it could be understood and, accordingly, addressed. Justify the position outlined in Part 1, drawing on the policy analysis approach developed in Assessment 1 to critically evaluate the position you have taken.

Draw on academic and policy documents as appropriate to support your response (you must include reference to unit readings as well as self-identified academic and policy sources).
