SUMMARY OF COURSE

This course examines curriculum differentiation for gifted and talented students across a variety of educational contexts. The course focuses on assessment strategies to identify individual needs and enhance differentiated curricula for gifted learners. Current research, resources and policies on appropriate curriculum design, teaching models and effective strategies will be explored, including how to teach to strengths and interests, developing metacognition and self-regulation. A variety of research-based curricula models will be investigated, including Maker's and Williams', with varying taxonomies and matrices. Examples will be provided that combine differentiating meaningful content, flexible learning processes and complexity in products for effective learning outcomes across a variety of supportive learning environments. The course includes planning to enable differentiated curriculum and assessment in your educational context, in order to inhibit underachievement and support talent development.

THE MAIN WAYS IN WHICH THE COURSE HAS CHANGED SINCE LAST TIME AS A RESULT OF STUDENT FEEDBACK:

- Feedback for the course was positive. More collaborate sessions have been incorporated and the Moodle course has been streamlined to offer choice without being overwhelming. Forums tasks have been re-organised to provide optional online interaction.

4. RATIONALE FOR THE INCLUSION OF CONTENT AND TEACHING APPROACH

The content of the course provides an overview of the major research and issues that may be relevant to the development of appropriate differentiated curriculum and assessment for gifted and talented students. This course builds upon the prior knowledge gained in the introductory course EDST5808. The teaching approach will actively engage students as they discuss current theory and practice, and learn new information, strategies and skills.

5. TEACHING STRATEGIES

A variety of individualised and grouping arrangements are designed to present key information on a range of content, concepts and issues in the development of appropriate curriculum for gifted and talented students. Online small group discussions and practical activities on assessment for individual student needs and curriculum design based on interests and strengths will assist participants to become more thoroughly familiar with differentiated curriculum content, processes, products and practices which are shown to be effective with gifted and talented students. Specifically, the course will include:

- Small group cooperative learning to understand the importance of teamwork in an educational context and to demonstrate the use of group structures as appropriate to address teaching and learning goals;
- Explicit teaching including recorded lectures & workshops with a variety of teaching strategies to engage and support learning;
- Opportunities for whole group and small group dialogue, discussion, allowing students the opportunity to share their expertise and demonstrate their capacity to communicate;
- Structured occasions for reflection on learning to allow students to reflect critically on issues discussed.

These activities will occur in a climate that is supportive and inclusive of all learners.
