Summary of the Course

What role does Europe's terrible twentieth-century history play today and how has this changed since 1945? To what extent does history divide or unite Europeans? Has Germany 'come to terms' with its Nazi past? How are Stalinism and the Soviet Union remembered in Putin's Russia? In this course you will explore how Europeans have coped with their recent pasts, particularly the experiences of fascism and Nazism, of World War II and the Holocaust, and of Soviet-style communism. You will be introduced to the interdisciplinary fields of 'transitional justice' and 'memory studies' in the context of contemporary Europe. You will examine attempts to achieve justice, to identify perpetrators, victims, collaborators and bystanders, to reconcile former enemies and ideological opponents, and to develop new, usable understandings of the past. You will study the many ways in which the past is addressed, including through trials and purges, through commemoration rituals, memorials, museums and monuments, through official histories and popular memories, as well as the public and scholarly debates that surround them. The course draws on cases from across Europe, including France, Germany, Poland, Russia and Spain, and considers the role of the European Union.

Course Learning Outcomes

1. explain the various ways in which European societies have handled the legacies of twentieth-century warfare, dictatorship and genocide
2. analyse the present-day significance and uses of the past
3. identify various forms of historical and contemporary agency and assess their significance in particular contexts
4. discuss the diversity of experiences in and perspectives on the past with appropriate consideration of ethical questions
5. apply and critique key concepts used in scholarly and public debates about the handling of the past
6. reflect on learning and how it has changed, challenged or confirmed previous thinking

Teaching Strategies

The learning and teaching strategy is designed to deliver a course that encourages your critical engagement with current and past debates about Europe’s difficult twentieth-century history, and with recent research at the intersections of contemporary history and the interdisciplinary fields of 'memory studies' and 'transitional justice'. Each week a specific issue and/or European country or region will be the focus of the lecture, the readings and the tutorial. The lectures provide background information and introduce theoretical and analytical perspectives and debates that will be explored in or exemplified by the specialised weekly readings. The lectures may also present specific primary sources or cultural artefacts such as memorials or films for discussion. The tutorials involve in-depth discussion of readings. My teaching strategy is to encourage your engagement with and structured reflection on the readings by having you complete a regular 'blog' in which you respond to questions on the set readings and pose your own discussion questions. Engagement with the lecture and reading material are also encouraged and assessed by a final in-class test, which gives you the opportunity to synthesise the material and reflect on what you have learnt. The essay and essay plan require you to undertake independent research on a specific topic, engage with relevant scholarship and practice your critical thinking, analytical and written communication skills.

Assessment Details

Assessment 1: Responses and questions on tutorial readings

Start date: Week 1

Details:

Six blog entries over the course of the term, each consisting of max. 200 words including a response to a question on a required reading and a discussion question. Feedback via in-class discussion as well as individual comments and marking rubric at two points during the term, including after submission of the first two blog entries.

Submission notes: Entries must be posted on Moodle before the relevant tutorial. Each day of late submission for an individual entry will count as a date of late submission for the whole assessment item, with penalties applying as outlined later in this Course Overview. If you do not submit six responses you will get zero for this assessment item. You must submit entries for at least two of the first three tutorials. In addition to submitting the entries on Moodle prior to the relevant tutorials, you must submit your first two entries (in a single Word file with double spacing) to Turnitin via Moodle by 8pm 1 October (week 3), and your remaining four entries (in a single Word file with double spacing) to Turnitin via Moodle by 8pm, Thursday 19 November (week 10).

Turnitin setting: This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students can see Turnitin similarity reports.

Assessment 2: Essay plan

Start date:

Length: 1,000 words (+/- 10%)

Details:

1,000 word essay plan including annotated bibliography. Feedback via individual comments and marking
Submission notes: Students wanting to propose their own essay topic should confer with the convenor in advance and need to have their topic confirmed by the convenor by 6pm, Thursday, 15 October, to ensure the feasibility of the topic. Otherwise, they will have to write on one of the set essay questions.

Turnitin setting: This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students can see Turnitin similarity reports.

Assessment 3: In-class test

Start date:

Length: ca. 1 hr

Details:

In-class test of approximately 1 hour including short-answer questions and a mini-essay. Students receive a mark and can request a marking rubric and individual comments.

Turnitin setting: This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students do not see Turnitin similarity reports.

Assessment 4: Research Essay

Start date: Not Applicable

Length: 2,500 words (+/- 10%)

Details:

2,500 word essay. Feedback via individual comments and marking rubric.

This is the final assessment task for attendance purposes.

Turnitin setting: This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students can see Turnitin similarity reports.
Attendance Requirements

Students are strongly encouraged to attend all classes and review lecture recordings.

Prescribed Resources

The essential weekly readings will be available electronically through Leganto/Moodle. Additional resources will be announced and made available via Moodle during the course.

Recommended Resources

A list of recommended readings is available on Moodle.

Course Evaluation and Development

Formal feedback is gathered from students using myExperience. Students have given extremely positive evaluations of ‘Confronting the Past in Contemporary Europe’ in previous years. When it was offered in 2018, its average score for overall student satisfaction was 5.67 out of 6. This was from a very high 95% response rate.

Individual student comments included the following:

'This was one of the best courses I have done in my time at uni. Every aspect was interesting an enjoyable – the readings were engaging, the tutorials contributed greatly to my understanding, and the assessment helped me engage with each topic while also giving the opportunity to specialise in an area of particular interest';

'Such a good course! super interesting with really appropriate readings and a great course structure, I also really loved the assessment side of things';

'In class discussions were engaging, people were actually interested in the course and did the readings'.

I also run my own informal surveys to gather more specific feedback on aspects of the course such as assessments and readings. I have finetuned the assessments over the years in response to feedback and replaced readings that students had identified as less than optimal.
Submission of Assessment Tasks

Turnitin Submission

If you encounter a problem when attempting to submit your assignment through Turnitin, please telephone External Support on 9385 3331 or email them on externaltelsupport@unsw.edu.au. Support hours are 8:00am – 10:00pm on weekdays and 9:00am – 5:00pm on weekends (365 days a year). If you are unable to submit your assignment due to a fault with Turnitin you may apply for an extension, but you must retain your ticket number from External Support (along with any other relevant documents) to include as evidence to support your extension application. If you email External Support you will automatically receive a ticket number, but if you telephone you will need to specifically ask for one. Turnitin also provides updates on their system status on Twitter.

Generally, assessment tasks must be submitted electronically via either Turnitin or a Moodle assignment. In instances where this is not possible, it will be stated on your course’s Moodle site with alternative submission details.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another’s ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another’s ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person’s individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person’s academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person’s work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time
• understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
• be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of
  UNSW ICT Resources Policy
• be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
• locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library

Some of these areas will be familiar to you, others will be new. Gaining a solid understanding of all the related aspects of ELISE will help you make the most of your studies at UNSW.
