Summary of the Course

This course examines the foreign policies of a number of influential powers, including the United States, China, India, Britain and France, from 1945 to the present. In doing so, it focuses on the problems, threats and challenges that confronted these powers during the Cold War and in the period following the collapse of the old bipolar system; it assesses how these powers perceived these problems, threats and challenges, how they reacted to them and what policies they put in place to offset them. Hence, it also discusses the processes, the institutions and the actors involved in foreign policy making at national level. In addition, this course not only analyses the geopolitical, military, economic and domestic constraints under which these powers acted, but it also considers the economic and military capabilities they relied on in pursuance of their foreign policy objectives. Last but not least, it considers important developments in world politics of the 20th century such as the world wars, the changing world economy, the Cold War, decolonization and conflict in the developing world, European integration and contemporary trends following the end of bipolarity. The course is specifically designed for those postgraduate students who are interested in contemporary diplomacy and statecraft, and who are keen to understand how the world’s major powers sought to pursue their national interests in a highly complex post-war international system.

Course Learning Outcomes

1. An appreciation of key aspects of the foreign policies of the 20th century’s major powers
2. To promote an awareness of the historical, political, strategic and economic factors that have shaped the foreign policies of these powers.
3. To develop students’ skills in areas of research as well as to develop students’ capacity for critical analysis

Teaching Strategies

The course is taught through one two-hour seminar each week. The weekly seminar will include a 40-minute presentation by the lecturer on the topic for consideration, followed by student presentations on one or more seminar questions, and general class discussion. The lecturer will lead the discussion between class participants. The general discussion is intended to develop the students’ understanding of the weekly reading material. Each student will be required to make one presentation from a range of seminar discussion topics.

It is essential that students come to class fully prepared to contribute to the learning environment. Hence, they must complete all the required weekly readings in preparation for seminars (and, if possible, some further reading from the recommended texts or articles). Failure to do so is not only unprofessional but also unfair towards those students who come to class fully prepared and keen to make their seminars a rewarding learning experience.

The assessment has been designed in such a way as to complement the learning and teaching process. A hurdle attendance requirement ensures that students have ongoing contact with the course, their peers and the instructor. Addressing discussion topics will ensure that students keep up and engage critically with their subject material. Class presentations develop skills in oral presentation, in responding to verbal questions and, more broadly in engaging in academic debate. The foreign policy review will allow students to explore a particular issue in depth while expanding their skills in written academic English and research skills as well as in terms of constructing a coherent and engaging argument. And finally, a final in-class test will ensure that students are entirely familiar with the course’s reading material.
Assessment

A significant aspect of POLS5129 is the examination in depth of a hypothetical case study based on a real-world foreign policy problem. The 2019 case study, ‘Economic Crisis in Europe and American Policy Options and Responses’ has been selected for its current salience and enduring value. Its key aim is to engage students with the complex dynamics of a major foreign policy problem and to help them better appreciate the challenge of formulating and implementing foreign policy in a highly complex and interdependent world. In order to achieve this goal, POLS5129 assessment mix relies significantly on the foreign policy review as an invaluable tool to foster independent research, critical thinking, effective communication, and problem solving. With this in mind, the course instructor has also built a significant part of the course content around the above case study. He has done so not only to facilitate the students’ task of dealing with very complex foreign policy problems but also to ensure that they fully enjoy and benefit from this learning experience.

Assessment Details

Assessment 1: End of Semester In-Class Test

Start date: Not Applicable

Length: 50 minutes

Details: You will be required to complete an end-of-semester test consisting of multiple choice and true/false questions. The test is designed to assess your knowledge and understanding of the material covered in class.

Additional details:

Failure to complete this task will result in a 0 grade for this assignment (and this assignment only). No laptops, no dictionary (unless the instructor grants permission ahead of the test), textbooks or notes are allowed during the test. Please make sure that you do not miss the test as it will not be repeated.

Turnitin setting: This is not a Turnitin assignment
Assessment 2: Presentation

Start date: Not Applicable

Length: 6 minutes

Details: You are required to make an oral in-class presentation of no more than 6 minutes. You will receive written feedback and a marked rubric within ten working days of submission. The rubric will be available at the start of the semester to allow you to work towards clearly communicated standards.

Additional details:

You will have to choose from one of the weekly discussion/presentation topics. Marks will be awarded in terms of the oral presentation's overall quality (e.g. clarity of spoken delivery and ability to present a clear case for or against the question that has been asked; in addition, the presentation has to have a) a clear structure with an introduction, b) a main body in which you develop your argument, and c) a conclusion). Please avoid reading your presentation word-for-word from a script or from PowerPoint slides (listening to someone read aloud can boring for an audience). Instead, aim to talk and, in doing so, strive to speak clearly and at a moderate pace (please don't rush through your presentation as your audience will find it hard to follow you). Some material on tutorial presentations can also be found on Moodle. Failure to complete this task will result in a 0 grade for this assignment (and this assignment only). Please make sure that you turn up for your presentation and do not miss the tutorial "time slot" allocated to you. Finally, you are not only expected to read beyond the 'essential weekly readings', but also to email your instructor (the day before your presentation) the list of references you used in preparing for your presentation. Failure to do so will result in a lower mark as your instructor needs to be able to assess the number and quality of your sources.

Turnitin setting: This is not a Turnitin assignment

Assessment 3: Foreign Policy Review

Start date: Not Applicable

Length: 2000 words (endnotes, footnotes and bibliography excluded)

Details: You will be required to write a foreign policy review of 2,000 in length (footnotes/endnotes and bibliography excluded from the word count). This is also the final assessment in the course.

Additional details:

A foreign policy review is a major piece of writing used by Foreign Ministries around the world to guide policy development. A review will analyse political (but also economic and strategic) developments, compare policy options, and propose specific policy recommendations. This exercise is designed to test your understanding of real-world problems and your ability to produce sound policy judgements. In addition, it aims to make you think about contemporary foreign policy issues as well as to encourage you to appreciate some of the difficulties that policymakers are faced with in formulating a coherent foreign policy towards a country, region or multilateral political issue. In this exercise, you will, therefore, assume the role of a foreign policy adviser. You will write a review of policy following the format provided by the course coordinator in week 3. The review must be based on solid empirical evidence and demonstrate a coherent policy approach. It should canvass alternative policy options and provide sound reasons for the policy approach advocated. In 2019 POLS5129 will focus on a hypothetical case study based on a real-world issue—that of the possible collapse of Europe’s monetary union and its single currency, the euro (this case study is drawn from Model Diplomacy, an interactive programme created by the prestigious US think-tank, Council of Foreign Relations). In this context, all foreign policy reviews will address the following policy issue: ‘Economic Crisis in Europe and American Policy Options and Responses’.

The review will be assessed on the following criteria: 1) evidence of research, 2) coherence, accuracy and succinctness of written expression, 3) soundness of proposed recommendations. The review must be no more than 2,000 words in length (footnotes/endnotes excluded). In drafting it, you must make sure that you have consulted a wide range of sources from academic books and refereed essays/papers to newspaper articles. There is no hard and fast rule on many readings you are expected to do. For this assignment, the expectation is that you will have no less than 8 scholarly sources (i.e. books, book chapters and academic articles) and several newspaper articles (at least 15) in your review. Also, be aware that failure to provide footnotes/endnotes/citations and bibliography will also lead to your review being failed. Although it is true that, in real life, foreign policy reviews do not have footnotes/endnotes, your foreign policy review is still an academic assignment and, as such, it has to be properly referenced. Please note that sloppy and inaccurate referencing will also be looked upon unfavourably and will result in significant point deductions. Please note that for the purpose of attendance monitoring, the final assessment for this course is the foreign policy review worth 55% of your overall grade for this course. This is the assessment item that will be graded 0 if you do not meet the attendance requirement for this course.

Turnitin setting: This assignment is submitted through Turnitin and students do not see Turnitin similarity reports.
Attendance Requirements

The School of Social Sciences expects that students will attend and participate actively in 100% of learning and teaching activities (henceforth 'classes', to include lectures, tutorials, seminars, labs, online learning activities and so on). If you attend less than 80% of classes, you may be refused final assessment. This means that if you do not attend at least 80% of possible classes your final assignment or exam may receive a mark of zero. You are responsible for keeping track of your attendance and contacting your course convenor immediately if you are concerned about your attendance record and its impact on your ability to complete your course successfully.

For the purpose of attendance monitoring, the final assessment for this course is the Foreign Policy Review worth 55% of your overall grade for this course. This is the assessment item that will be graded at zero if you do not meet the attendance requirement for this course. For this course, attendance is calculated as shown in the table below:

In 2019 POLS5129 focuses on a hypothetical case study based on a real-world issue—that of the possible collapse of Europe's monetary union and its single currency, the euro (this case study is drawn from Model Diplomacy, an interactive programme created by the prestigious US think-tank, Council of Foreign Relations). In this context, all foreign policy reviews will have to address the following policy issue: 'Economic Crisis in Europe and American Policy Options and Responses'.

This seminar will, therefore, concentrate on how to do a foreign policy review. In preparation for this seminar, you will be required to familiarise yourself with the Council of Foreign Relations’ Model Diplomacy module, ‘Economic Crisis in Europe’. At the start of the course, the instructor will send you an invitation to sign up to this module online.

In preparation for this seminar, you should complete the following introductory readings:

- Dobson, Alan and Marsh, Steve, US Foreign Policy since 1945 (Hoboken: Taylor & Francis, 2006)
- Parmar, Inderjeet, Miller, Linda B. and Ledwidge, Mark (eds), New Directions in US Foreign Policy (New York: Routledge, 2009)

FOREIGN POLICY IN FOCUS

A ‘Euro’ tragedy: France, Germany, the EU and Europe’s single currency

You are required to watch the following two documentaries covering in greater depth one of the themes examined in this course. The documentary will be available on Moodle. You can also go to https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=P0FUYh4Ycts&feature=youtu.be and https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=LC_24vqB6fw

These two documentaries examine why the establishment of a single European currency in Europe has posed, and continues to pose, significant problems to European policymakers. In 200 words, please address the following question: ‘What should Germany and France do with the euro?’

Please be reminded that this online learning activity will count towards your participation/attendance in class activities (see attendance requirements above). This means that students failing to submit their written answer to the above question (or writing poor one) will be considered as having not completed this learning task.
1. In your view, which are the major achievements and shortcomings of German foreign policy after 1945?

or

2. Why did Germany agree to the ambitious but possibly misconceived European Monetary Union? What has Germany got to gain it? And what has it got to lose from it?

or

3. Chancellor Adenauer's policy of Westbindung was a complete failure as it tied Germany far too tightly to the United States. Discuss

IN-CLASS TEST (50 minutes)

DISCUSSION ON THE FOREIGN POLICY REVIEW EXERCISE (50 minutes)

In this tutorial class, we will conduct a brief mock NSC meeting to debate and discuss the issues raised in your foreign policy reviews (that is, on how the United States should respond to an emerging economic and political crisis in Europe). You will take on the roles of various policy advisers, discussing policy options and recommending possible courses of action (based on the foreign policy review that you will have already written by then). The instructor will play the role of the President of the United States and will moderate the discussion.
In preparation for this brief exercise, you should re-read your foreign policy review and come to class prepared to participate and give your advice.

Destined for War: Can America and China Escape the Thucydides’s Trap

You are required to watch the following documentary covering in greater depth one of the themes examined in this course. The documentary will be available on Moodle. You can also go to https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8yghQc-lMIM&t=342s

This documentary examines whether the United States and China are destined for war. In 200 words, please address the following question: ‘Are the US and the PRC destined for war? If so, why? If not, why not?’

Please be reminded that this online learning activity will count towards your participation/attendance in class activities (see attendance requirements above). This means that students failing to submit their written answer to the above question (or writing poor one) will be considered as having not completed this learning task.
Resources

Prescribed Resources

There is no set text for POLS5129. Students should refer to the bibliography that is included in this guide. Essential weekly readings available through Leganto.

Useful reference books for this course are:

Course Evaluation and Development

Student evaluative feedback is gathered periodically using, among other means, UNSW's "My Experience Survey". Informal feedback and class-generated feedback are also important. Student feedback is taken seriously, and continual improvements are made to the course based in part on such feedback. Significant changes to the course will be communicated to subsequent cohorts of students taking the course.
Submission of Assessment Tasks

Turnitin Submission

If you encounter a problem when attempting to submit your assignment through Turnitin, please telephone External Support on 9385 3331 or email them on externalteltsupport@unsw.edu.au. Support hours are 8:00am – 10:00pm on weekdays and 9:00am – 5:00pm on weekends (365 days a year). If you are unable to submit your assignment due to a fault with Turnitin you may apply for an extension, but you must retain your ticket number from External Support (along with any other relevant documents) to include as evidence to support your extension application. If you email External Support you will automatically receive a ticket number, but if you telephone you will need to specifically ask for one. Turnitin also provides updates on their system status on Twitter.

Generally, assessment tasks must be submitted electronically via either Turnitin or a Moodle assignment. In instances where this is not possible, it will be stated on your course’s Moodle site with alternative submission details.

For information on how to submit assignments online via Moodle: https://student.unsw.edu.au/how-submit-assignment-moodle
Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another’s ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another’s ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person’s individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person’s academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person’s work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time
• understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
• be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of UNSW ICT Resources Policy
• be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
• locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library

Some of these areas will be familiar to you, others will be new. Gaining a solid understanding of all the related aspects of ELISE will help you make the most of your studies at UNSW.
