Summary of the Course

International law plays an integral role in the system of international politics. This course challenges you to analyse that role and the major interpretations of that role. The content covered includes topics such as: the core principles and concepts of international law; distinguishing a political from a legal interpretation of a multilateral treaty, consent and verification; the operation of the International Court of Justice and the relationship between foreign policy formulation and international law. This is an International Relations course focussing on the interaction of law and politics. It is not a Law course. No prior knowledge of international law is required.

Course Learning Outcomes

1. Understand some of the key concepts and principles of international law and some of the more important aspects of the contemporary system of international law
2. Identify the various ways in which politics and law are related at the international level and explain how this relationship operates and why it matters
3. Research a question pertaining to international law
4. Identify key actors in the international legal system and assess their role in shaping the system
5. Understand the central place of the United Nations Charter in the international legal and political systems
6. Read and analyse an international treaty or convention and appreciate the various elements that have gone into its development
7. Use and choose intelligently between different theoretical perspectives (e.g. realism, positivism and functionalism) to explain international political and legal developments
8. Demonstrate a solid understanding of the nature of international treaties and regimes and acquire a more detailed understanding of one chosen treaty regime

Teaching Strategies

The course will consist of a two-hour seminar each week.

Assessment 3: Group presentation

Start date: 02/07/2019 04:00 PM

Details: Written feedback will be emailed to students after the class.

Additional details:

This mark will be based primarily on your Week 10 presentation. Further details will be provided in weeks 8-9. Your participation throughout the course may also be taken into account. Also a record of attendance will be maintained. Feedback will be emailed to students.

Criteria for Marking Group Presentations

Students will be marked individually, not as a group, and whether the individual contribution to the presentation

1	Contains factually accurate and up-to-date information on the subject matter, including some legal detail
2	Accurately reflects the position of the individual being represented. If in the role of the interviewer: introduces the issue and provides the context within which the audience can follow the discussion; clarifies any points that could seem unclear to a general audience, and succinctly draws the discussion to a close.
3	Links international law with the political context in which it functions.
4	Demonstrates research into scholarly sources of information/documents as well as internet/media sources as appropriate to the topic.
5	Keeps within the stipulated time constraints. If in the role of the interviewer: distributes the questions appropriately around the group ensuring roughly equivalent time to group members and manages the presentation within the specified time limits.
6	Presents the information in an engaging manner.

Turnitin setting: This is not a Turnitin assignment

Google Scholar (<http://scholar.google.com>) is useful to locate relevant scholarly literature. You can set up the preferences to link to the UNSW Library even when you are not on campus. Go to Google Scholar> settings> library links, and enter 'University of New South Wales' in the box for 'Library': You can sign up for Table of Contents (TOC) Alerts from the homepages of relevant journals, to receive an email whenever new articles are published in that journal. Journal websites will often carry information on the most viewed and most cited articles; these are likely to be interesting and often influential contributions. Google Scholar will also point you to articles that have cited a particular article and hence will be related to the topic.

Course Evaluation and Development

At UNSW, student evaluative feedback is gathered periodically using, among other means, the myExperience process. Student feedback on this course is gathered through myExperience evaluations at the end of the course, and at any time students are welcome to email or speak to the Convenor about questions or problems. It is sometimes the case that students understand the significance of some of the problems considered only after the course is formally completed, and students are also always welcome to contact the seminar Convenor after classes have finished, even many years after the course has ended. All feedback is carefully considered, reflected upon, and used to evaluate and refine all aspects of the course.

Submission of Assessment Tasks

Submission of Assessment Tasks

Turnitin Submission

If you encounter a problem when attempting to submit your assignment through Turnitin, please telephone External Support on 9385 3331 or email them on externalteltsupport@unsw.edu.au . Support hours are 8:00am – 10:00pm on weekdays and 9:00am – 5:00pm on weekends (365 days a year). If you are unable to submit your assignment due to a fault with Turnitin you may apply for an extension, but you must retain your ticket number from External Support (along with any other relevant documents) to include as evidence to support your extension application. If you email External Support you will automatically receive a ticket number, but if you telephone you will need to specifically ask for one. Turnitin also provides updates on their system status on Twitter.

Generally, assessment tasks must be submitted electronically via either Turnitin or a Moodle assignment. In instances where this is not possible, it will be stated on your course's Moodle site with alternative submission details.

For information on how to submit assignments online via Moodle: <https://student.unsw.edu.au/how-submit-assignment-moodle>

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another's ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another's ideas or words without credit and to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without appropriate referencing.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person's individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person's academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person's work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices:

- Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management
- Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre (<http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/>). Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

UNSW Library also has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students to studying at UNSW but it can also be a great refresher during your study.

Completing the ELISE tutorial and quiz will enable you to:

- analyse topics, plan responses and organise research for academic writing and other assessment tasks
- effectively and efficiently find appropriate information sources and evaluate relevance to your needs
- use and manage information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose
- better manage your time

- understand your rights and responsibilities as a student at UNSW
- be aware of plagiarism, copyright, UNSW Student Code of Conduct and Acceptable Use of UNSW ICT Resources Policy
- be aware of the standards of behaviour expected of everyone in the UNSW community
- locate services and information about UNSW and UNSW Library

Some of these areas will be familiar to you, others will be new. Gaining a solid understanding of all the related aspects of ELISE will help you make the most of your studies at UNSW.
